and loating a good deal. Then I forgot all about him until one day a few years ago when he turned up in the papers as Capt. Heary Smith, the Klomitke Gold King, just back from Circle City, with 2 million in dust and anything you please in claims.

I was a little puzzled when, a week later, my office boy brought me a card reading Col. Heary Augustus Rottes Smythe, but I supposed it was some distinguished foreigner, who had come to size me up so that he could round out his reast on Chicago in and he had that gilded first thing, because, as he said, he wasn't running a receiving vanit and he ddn't want any mistakes. Then he bought a nice, open barouche, had the wheels painted red, hired a nigger roachman and started out in style to be sociable and get arguminted. Left his card all the way down one side of Bescon street, and then drove back, leaving it on the other. Everywhere he stopped he found that the whole family was out. Kept it up a week, on and off, but didn't seem to have any lack. Thought that the men must be hot sports and the women great gadders.

drop into the Back bay. Handed me his new card four times and explained that it was the rawest sort of dog to carry a brace of names in your card holster; that it gave you the drop on the swells every time, and that they just had to throw up both hands and pass you the pot when you showed down. Said that Bottes was old English for Botts, and that Smythe was new American for Smilt; the Angustus was just a fancy touch, a sort of high-card kicker.

I duin't explain to Hank, because it was congratulations and not explanations that he wanted, and I make it a point to show a customer the line of goods that he's look, ing for. And I never heard the full particulars of his experiences in the east, though, from what I learned afterward, Hank struck Boston with a bang, all right.
